Friends of Windsor & Royal Borough Museum

Our Aims

Friends of the Windsor and Royal Borough Museum supports the varied aspects of the museum's activities. They help to inform, educate and entertain Windsor's visitors and local residents alike. This is done through stewarding in the Guildhall and assisting in various family friendly activities and helping with educational initiatives throughout the year.

We also organise a programme of talks and social events in order to fund-raise and members are kept in touch through a newsletter and e-bulletins to publicise local events and activities. Contributions to both are welcome.

Members have the opportunity, should they so wish, to assist the Museum staff with curatorial duties, displays and other related projects at both the Guildhall and the Museum Store. The level of commitment is purely a personal choice.

By working with and supporting other like-minded organisations in the local area we promote the Borough's history and cultural heritage.

The museum store is at Dedworth, Windsor

Windsor's Guildhall Museum opened in March 2011. It seeks to show various aspects of life in the town from the earliest times to the present by displaying some of the 10,000 and more items in the Museum's collections.

The store may be visited by arrangement when a member of staff or a curatorial volunteer is available to help.

Special exhibitions are mounted in the Museum and there are other limited displays at libraries throughout the Royal Borough.

Special events are arranged at holiday times to encourage an interest in local history.
